Young Woman Accused of Slaying Babe, to Face Jury

LEBANON, Mo., July 8.—Mrs. Anna C. Kauffman, wealthy Los Angeles welfare worker, with her attorney, Arthur C. Verge, of that city, today to face the jury in the murder of her infant child.

"The girl's last plight interested me from the start," Mrs. Kauffman said. "I had been engaged in work similar to this in Paris, London and New York, but this is one of the worst cases I have ever found."

When Mrs. Kauffman first met Miss Marie Mulleberry, she expressed a desire to die and refused to divulge to her the name of her husband. It was 30 days before she was able to get a true confession from her. In this confession she named W. E. McCann, president of the Lebanon chapter of the Commercial Union of America, as the father of her child.

"Today she is facing a charge of first degree murder," Mrs. Kauffman said. "She is a broken in spirit, but still loves the man who has taken her life."

Mr. McCann should be here to see her. He promised to come to Los Angeles, but has never shown up. He telegraphed her several times and also wrote her a letter and had awaited his arrival daily until 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Kauffman exhibited a telegram purporting to have been sent by McCann, which admitted that the girl's confession was true. It was sent Mrs. Kauffman from Baton Rouge, La., and is said to be in a Texas sanitarium at present, having suffered a nervous breakdown as the result of the girl's disclosure.

It was stated that Thomas Lee Woolwine, district attorney of Los Angeles, would arrive on Monday to face the case.

Meanwhile Attorney Verge is preparing to file suit for damages against McCann, claiming seduction under promise of marriage.

Following Hunch on Big Fight Brings Him Back To the Harvest Field

Special to The World

PAWBUCK, July 8.—Jack Carpenter, erstwhile defier, will become a harvest hand, and all in all, a hunch that a name approximating his own could not fail of success, Jack wandered his life savings of about $4,000 on the outcome of the "Battle of the Century," staking his whole pile on George Carpenter in various small bets, at odds of four and five to one.

Jack Carpenter, who is about 24 years old, had planned to retire for life on his winnings.

"A pretty hard blow, but the odds were such that I expected to be able to pay off on my debt," he said.
